

Social sciences, and even more so natural sciences and engineering, tend to neglect local conditions, i.e. how ecological, social, political or economic issues are perceived and addressed in the specific context of a country or region and how solutions are sought for and implemented. Area studies can correct these shortcomings, because they pay close attention to local conditions and regional differences. Nevertheless, it is far from common practice that area studies specialists and researchers from other sciences collaborate.

Our conference aims at highlighting possible contributions of area studies to the sciences, innovation and public policy by discussing concrete examples in highly relevant thematic fields. We would like to invite you to the public part of our conference which will refer to the outcomes of our preceding "closed" sessions.

November 15, 2016

Sanjo Kaikan, The University of Tokyo

Admission Free, Registration Required

The Relevance of Area Studies for the Sciences and Public Policy

Program

Examples from Europe & Asia

13:30- 13:40 Welcome Addresses

Masashi HANEDA (The University of Tokyo, Vice President)
Patrick KÖLLNER (GIGA Institute of Asian Studies, Director)

13:40-14:40 Keynotes – Area Studies, Innovation and Public Policy in Europe and Asia

Yuko HARAYAMA (CSTI, Cabinet Office Japan, Executive Member)
- Does Location Matter for Designing Science and Innovation Policy?
Yuichiro ANZAI (JSPS, President, Member of Foundation Council of JDZB)
- The Role and Significance of Area Studies for Our Society
Keiko SAKAI (Relational Studies on Global Crisis, Project Leader, Chiba University)
- Overcoming the Dilemmas – Relationship as a New Perspective
Franz WALDENBERGER (DIJ, Director)
- Area Studies and the Social Sciences – What Policy Makers Can and Should Expect

14:40-15:00 Break

15:00-17:00 Roundtable – Why Area Studies Matter

Chair: Iris WIECZOREK (GIGA, Senior Researcher; Leibniz Japan, Representative)

Panelists:

Yuko HARAYAMA (CSTI, Executive Member)
Patarapong INTARAKUMNERD (GRIPS, Professor) - Innovation
Jin SATO (The University of Tokyo, Professor) - Ecology & Energy Transition
Patrick KÖLLNER (GIGA Institute of Asian Studies, Director) - Foreign Policy
H. D. KARUNARATNE (University of Colombo, Professor) - Health and Food Security
Susanne BRUCKSCH (DIJ, Senior Researcher) - Engineering, Robotics and IoT
Eiji NAGASAWA (The University of Tokyo, Professor) - Ideological, Political & Social Forces in the Era of Globalization

17:15-19:15 Reception

Please register at registration@leibniz-association.eu

Registration deadline:

11/11

Inquiries: Iris Wieczorek, Leibniz Japan
03-3470-7257

Venue Access: (map)
Sanjo Conference Hall
7-3-1 Hongo Bunkyo-ku

Closed Sessions

(Participation by Application via E-Mail)

November 14 (Mon)

09:30 – 10:30

Setting the Scene

Welcome Addresses

Osamu TAKAMIZAWA (The University of Tokyo, Director of IASA)

Franz WALDENBERGER (DIJ, Director)

Introduction to the Rationale of the Conference

Iris WIECZOREK (GIGA, Senior Research Fellow; Leibniz Japan, Representative)

Key Notes: Area Studies - What it is, What it can Do

Hiroyoshi KANO (The University of Tokyo, Professor emeritus)

- Area Studies on Asia in Japan: A Brief History

Patrick KÖLLNER (GIGA Institute of Asian Studies, Director)

- Area Studies in Flux: Border Crossing as a Trend and as a Challenge

Itty ABRAHAM (National University of Singapore, Associate Professor)

- Innovation in the Anthropocene: Insights from Area Studies

10:30 – 12:00

Area Studies in Practice

Session 1: Innovation

Chair: Patarapong INTARAKUMNERD (GRIPS, Professor)

Margot SCHÜLLER (GIGA, Senior Research Fellow)

- Beyond National Innovation Systems and Triple Helix: The Distinctive Role of an Innovation Culture in Europe and Asia

Patarapong INTARAKUMNERD (GRIPS, Professor)

- Technology and Innovation Policies for SMEs in East Asia

Hideyuki HORII (The University of Tokyo, Professor)

- TBA

12:00 – 13:30

Lunch

13:30 – 15:00

Session 2: Ecology & Energy Transition

Chair: Jin SATO (The University of Tokyo, Professor)

Daniel KREMERS (DIJ, Senior Researcher)

- Different Speeds of Energy Transition in Rural Japan – Comparing Municipal Policies from the Perspective of Social and Cultural Capital Theory

Weert CANZLER (Leibniz Research Alliance “Energy Transition“, Speaker)

- The Grand Challenge of the Transformation of the Energy System

Hiroyuki YAMAMOTO (Kyoto University, Associate Professor)

- The Social Context of Evacuation during Emergency Response: Case Study of the 2007 Sumatran Earthquake

15:00 – 15:15

Break

15:15 – 16:45

Session 3: Public & Foreign Policy

Chair: Patrick KÖLLNER (GIGA Institute of Asian Studies, Director)

Henner FÜRTIG (GIGA Institute of Middle East Studies, Director)

- Overcoming the Gap Between the Worlds of Thought and Action: The Impact of Think Tanks on German Foreign Policy

Yaqing QIN (China Foreign Affairs University, President)

- Area Studies as a Via Media

Kenichi MASAMOTO (MOFA, Policy Planning Division, Director)

- TBA

16:45 – 17:00

Break

Closed Sessions

(Participation by Application via E-Mail)

November 14 (Mon)

17:00 – 18:30

Session 4: Health & Food Security

Chair: H D KARUNARATNE (University of Colombo, Professor)

Chiho WATANABE (The University of Tokyo, Director of ASNET)

- What is Regional Specificity for Health Sciences?

Reiner BRUNSCH (Leibniz Institute for Agricultural Engineering and Bioeconomy (ATB), Scientific Director)

- Sustainable Food Production and Healthy Nutrition Need Multidisciplinary Research

K. KARUNATHILAKE (University of Kelaniya, Professor)

- Social Safeguard Issues in Development Planning: Health and Food Security Requirements in Road Infrastructure Developments in Sri Lanka

November 15 (Tue)

09:00 – 10:30

Session 5: Ideological, Political and Social Forces in the Era of Globalisation

Chair: Eiji NAGASAWA (The University of Tokyo, Professor)

Emi GOTO (The University of Tokyo, Associate Professor)

- A Goal of Area Study in the Era of Globalization: Understanding the World, Understanding the Self

Claudia DERICHS (Philipps Universität Marburg, Professor)

- Area Studies, Sciences and Lived Realities

A.B. SHAMSUL (The National University of Malaysia, Institute of Ethnic Studies, Founding Director)

- Southeast Asia as a Form of Knowledge: Relevance of Southeast Asian Studies for Sciences and Public Policy

10:30 – 10:45

Break

10:45 – 12:15

Session 6: Engineering, Robotics and IoT

Chair: Susanne BRUCKSCH (DIJ, Senior Researcher)

Pablo García DEL VALLE (EPFL, Scientist) and Marc LAPERROUZA (EPFL, Scientific Collaborator)

- China Hardware Innovation Camp (CHIC)

Masaru YARIME (The University of Tokyo, Project Associate Professor)

- Diversity in Implementing Smart Cities: Implications of Area Studies for Science, Technology, and Innovation Policy

Stéphane GRUMBACH (IXXI, Complex System Institute, Director)

- Digital Platforms, Europe Asia, Diverging Spaces?

Organizers

GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies (Hamburg), German Institute for Japanese Studies (DIJ, Tokyo)

The University of Tokyo [Network for Education and Research on Asia (ASNET), Institute for Advanced Studies on Asia (IASA)]

Cooperating Institutions

Friedrich Ebert Foundation (FES), Japanese-German Center Berlin (JDZB), Leibniz Association, Relational Studies on Global Crisis (JSPS Grant-in-Aid Project)